LARGE FIREWORKS DISPLAY JULY 3

Little Round Top Slope to be Scene of Remarkable Display on the Third Evening of Battle Anniversary Celebration.

Final arrangements have been made for an imposing display of fireworks on Little Round Top on the night of July third, the plans providing for the most elaborate affair of the kind given in this state for many years.

A number of large pieces will be set off during the evening from such a position that they will be easily seen from the southern edge of town all the way out to Round Top, and the multitudes of people expected here for the anniversary can all view the display comfortably and to perfect advantage.

There will be set pieces of the several Army Corps and at the base of the hill a nest of mortars from which bombs and rockets will be fired, all most compactly placed within a space, the outer borders of which are the Sedgwick, Warren and Crawford avenues and the Wheatfield Road, although, of course, not occupying the entire space. These boundaries will be used for the placing of a cordon of guards to protect the spectators from any possible injury.

The most notable display of the entire evening will be the concluding piece which will be a great American flag of fire, surmounted by a large golden eagle of fire above which are the words "God Bless Our Nation." This will be fired from the rocky crest near the Warren statue. The contract for this display has been awarded the Pain Fireworks Display Company of America.

The cars containing the various displays will be under heavy guard while here and every precaution will be taken to prevent accident. The pieces will not be put in position for firing until the afternoon of July third.

Representatives of the Pennsylvania, Philadelphia and Reading, Baltimore and Ohio, Norfolk and Western, and Western Maryland railroads gathered at Gettysburg this morning to go over the proposition of handling the crowds in July. They held several sessions at Hotel Gettysburg, about twenty five railroad men attending the meetings. The officials were brought here in several special trains and private cars. The Pennsylvania and Reading officials came in a train composed of a Pennsylvania locomotive and private cars of the two roads. The Baltimore and Ohio and Western Maryland people also came in a special while the Norfolk and Western representatives arrived at 8:41 on the regular train in their private car.

Over 22,000 applications have been filed with the Gettysburg semi-centennial celebration commission for transportation and quarters by veterans and it is expected that the necessary orders will all be issued within the next ten days. It has been found that 1,300 Pennsylvanians are living in other states have applied and that 1,800 men who served in other Union regiments and are now living in Pennsylvania have also sent in papers. Two hundred Confederate veterans living in this state have asked for transportation and quarters and there have also been filed papers by 400 former regular army officers and 300 men from the navy who are entitled to be guests of the state.

WANTS $9

Baggage Carried Past New Oxford, Man Wants to be Paid.

William Skivington, of Mumfords, New York, wants to be reimbursed in the sum of $9 because the Western Maryland carried his baggage from Gettysburg through New Oxford to Hanover. It was consigned to New Oxford and the complainant says to the Pennsylvania Railroad Commission that by the time it was returned to that point he was compelled to undergo trouble and delay to the amount claimed. The commission has advised him that this is a matter for the courts to determine.

ENDOWMENT IS ENTIRELY RAISED

Dr. Granville Announces to Board of Trustees Completion of Large Fund. College Professors' Salaries Raised. Other Business.

Much gratification followed the announcement by President Granville at this morning's meeting of the College Board of Trustees that the endowment fund of $150,000 had been entirely raised, the old debt of the college wiped out and that the $50,000 Rockefeller gift, made on these conditions several years ago was now available. The news officially announced at the trustees' meeting soon became known about college and was the cause for numerous expressions of delight and congratulation.

The college authorities had been given to July 1, 1913 to complete the task of meeting the conditions of the General Education Board and, while other colleges have had to ask for an extension of time, there was no need of such request at Gettysburg. In announcing to the Board of Trustees the completion of the fund Dr. Granville said:

"About 1700 donors have contributed sums ranging from $1.00 to $15,000.00, the average subscription being approximately $110.00, not counting the conditional promise of $50,000 from the General Education Board."

"What all the friends of the college have so long worked and prayed for, namely, a substantial increase in the number of students the payment of the old debt of $50,000 (on April 1, 1913) and the placing of the institution on a sound financial basis, has at last come to pass, and we are deeply grateful to God for this generous measure of success."

"I should like to give credit here by name to all those who have so loyally and generously helped us with their contributions and with their personal efforts, but since their names are legion, this, of course, not possible. I can assure them, however, that their generous gifts and many acts of helpfulness are not only recorded in the permanent archives of the college, but they are also deeply engraved in the thankful hearts of all the friends of the institution."

"It would not be just, however, to omit all mention by name of those who at great sacrifice of time and strength have helped to personally canvass the field. Without in any way neglecting their college duties Professors Sanders and Wentz have each made numerous trips with splendid financial results. Mr. S. F. Snyder, Assistant to the President, has devoted every day that he could spare from his regular duties as student canvasser to the collection of funds, and his services have been most valuable. Professor Huber has devoted his whole time to the financial campaign and I cannot find words strong or expressive enough to indicate how important and fruitful his services have been."

"Soliciting money, even for the most worthy cause, is not usually regarded as an agreeable task, and I am sure it had no special attractions for Professor Huber. Like a good and faithful soldier, however, he responded unhesitatingly to the call of duty from his Alma Mater. Professor Huber is to be credited with the initiation of the very successful plan of subscriptions from the Sunday Schools and other organizations of our churches. The sincere thanks of all the friends of the institution, will, I am sure, be gratefully accorded to these men and others who throughout this strenuous financial campaign have never for an instant faltered or been found wanting, but who have at all times and under all circumstances loyally co-operated with the President of the college."

Other Business

John F. Dapp of Harrisburg, was elected president of the board to succeed W. L. Glatfelter who was unable to serve. H. C. Pickering of Gettysburg, was elected secretary. Mr. Glatfelter will continue to serve as a member of the executive committee.

D. R. Leathers, a graduate of this year's class, was chosen instructor in Prep to succeed J. G. Knappe.

Harry Beideman, of Harrisburg, was elected Y. M. C. A. secretary to succeed Earl Bowman.

George R. Kapp, a graduate this year, was chosen assistant in physics. A general increase in salaries was authorized, the full professors to receive $1600 instead of $1500 and other increases being general.

Luther A. Brewer, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, was made a member of the board.

Resolutions were passed on the death of Dr. C. M. Stock.

The petition of the College Church for an additional appropriation of $200 toward the pastor's salary was granted, making the annual sub-

WAR COLLEGE TO BE HERE JUNE 16

Will Spend Several Days Fighting over the Battle of Gettysburg and Studying Tactics of Various Generals Concerned.

Theoretically waging the battles of the Civil War, thirty-two student officers of the Army War College, under command of Brigadier General William Crozier president of the Army War College, are on their way to Gettysburg. They are now at Annapolis and should reach Gettysburg, Monday June 16.

The students represent all of the departments of the United States Army and are making their annual historical and staff rides, which began at Richmond, Va.

Every detail is noted and the battle is again theoretically waged by the officers in their conference tent, with a certain number of them commanding the two armies. Tactical mistakes of the officers who were in command during the Civil War are pointed out and the real intent of the generals when they gave their commands is emphasized.

With a large map, showing the smallest stream, village and road, the location of the armies are shown and the battle worked out, without the opposing officers divulging the purpose of their orders which are issued as the general sees fit, or just as it would happen in time of actual war.

In other words the battles of the Civil War are being once again waged under the same conditions that they were fought more than half a century ago, and then the modern army and tactics are interjected and the battle refought as it should be with the resources of today.

The object of the college is to give the students actual training so that they would be prepared to take charge of important commands during a war. At the same time this method brings out the executive abilities of the officers and trains them to foresee actual victories or disasters.

Accompanying the officers are about 52 enlisted men, consisting of 40 colored and 12 white troopers, who have charge of the wagons, 15 in number, and the making of camp.

TOLL NEWS

Free Toll on Chambersburg Pike in Two Weeks—Possibly.

If the company owning the pike between Chambersburg and the Maryland line by way of Gettysburg does not file exceptions the State on June 17 will take over the road in Franklin county and on June 20 the road in Adams County. If exceptions are filed they will be on the reason that the Sproul act is under consideration by the Supreme Court. That will not hold the matter up long, as the Court is expected to give its decision in the case of the Bedford pike company case on June 24, and if the decision affirms the constitutionality of that act, it will have an immediate effect on these roads, and toll gates will no longer harass the farmers and autoists.

At the instance of H. B. Gano, chairman of the Good Roads Committee of the Chambersburg Motor Club, Commissioner Bigelow had Deputy Hunter go to Chambersburg on Saturday. With John W. Hoke, counsel for the Highway Department, the papers were prepared and on Saturday Sheriff Walker served them on President T. B. Kennedy of the pike company. They will be presented in Franklin County on June 17 and in Adams County on June 20, and, as stated, if no exceptions are filed, will be acted upon.

If the Supreme Court finds in favor of the Highway Department that will remove the toll gates from Bedford to Gettysburg before the big time when hundreds of autoists will use that road.

SCOUTS TO HELP CARRY MESSAGE

Gettysburg Boy Scouts will Help in the Big Task of Sending Message from Washington to Chicago. Members not yet Chosen.

Gettysburg's Boy Scouts will take part in carrying the message from Washington to the big Pre-Olympic carnival at Chicago to be held from June 28 to July 6, a brief note of which was made in these columns last week. Rev. J. B. Baker is in communication with the authorities of the athletic event at Chicago and says that he expects to put a squad of the Gettysburg Scouts on duty.

The message is to be one of the opening features of the big athletic event. The entire distance to be covered from Washington to Chicago is 775 miles. It is argued that this distance can be covered by about 800 boys, each of whom will travel one mile.

From the time the message leaves the hands of President Wilson at the White House until it arrives in Chicago it will be traveling continuously, day and night, the trip being expected to require four days and three nights. The message will be brought here by way of Emmitsburg and go out to Chambersburg.

Gettysburg's Scouts will go out of town some distance toward the Maryland town and some distance toward Chambersburg where they will be stationed at intervals of one mile each. As soon as the last boy from Emmitsburg reaches the first Gettysburg Scout he will trot ahead for a mile and give it to the next Gettysburg boy and so on into the town and out the Chambersburg pike until the first Chambersburg boy is met when the task of sending the message will be completed so far as Gettysburg is concerned.

Rev. Mr. Baker has not yet made official announcement to the Boy Scouts as to which ones will be picked for the task but it is safe to say that there will be plenty of applicants for it is decidedly a unique event and one which will create wide-spread interest.

FOR THE CHILDREN

For Boys Who Play Ball.

Professional baseball players play the game for the love of the game and because they make their living in that way. So they play it for all it is worth, and their whole waking time is spent in the perfection of the game and in the attempt to make its fine points finer.

Realizing this, the college team has all too often "gone the professional one better" in the multiplicity and complications of its signals.

Don't make the same mistake. Don't have too many signals. Don't make them complicated.

Four signs for catcher to pitcher, four signs from pitcher to catcher—that is all you should need to bother with.

"Hit!" "The hit and run." "A bunt" (or sacrifice) and "Wait!" between bench and batter—these are sufficient. "Steal!" a signal between the catcher and the runner; "Will hit next ball!" a sign from batter to runner.

If you have a simple code for all these things you have plenty for the average lad's game, and if you have them well learned and if you agree to obey signs and stick to it, other things being equal, you will seldom fail to vanquish the other lines in your league or neighborhood.

The First Step.

A Woodman came into a forest and made a petition to the Trees to provide him a handle for his ax.

The Trees, honored by his civility, acceded to his request and held a consultation to decide which of them should be given to him.

Without a dissenting voice the choice fell upon the Ash, which it seems is not a favorite among the Trees. Some of them were bold enough to say that bad luck went with the Ash and that at heart they were not bound to be in sympathy with woodcutters.

The Woodman cut down the Tree and fitted the handle to his ax, then, to the dismay of the Trees, set to work and with strong strokes quickly felled all the noblest giants of the forest.

Lamenting too late the fate of his companions, an old Oak said to a neighboring Cedar: "The first step has lost us all. If we had not so willingly given up the rights of the Ash we might have stood for ages."

A Dog's Intelligence.

Animals as a rule understand who their friends are. A Washingtonian tells the story of the dog whose eyes had been treated by an oculist to his great relief. The trouble returned, and the dog's master determined to take him to the oculist's a second time. Film Flam seemed to know where he was going, for on entering the square where the oculist had his office he raced ahead of his master and up the step where he had been but once before and on the door being opened bolted straight for the treatment room. This time the treatment was a zinc solution that was very severe and brought the water in streams from the patient's eyes, but he took it with his nose in the air, never wincing, and the only sign of feeling he made was to hold out one paw pathetically for his master's hand.

Oddities of Genius.

Of the great philosopher Samuel Johnson it is said that the doctor was remarkable in his school days for his habit of putting off disagreeable tasks for an indefinite period. His extraordinary memory enabled him to easily perform his tasks when once fairly started. He greatly enjoyed being carried into school every morning by three of his schoolfellows and in return for the distinction thus afforded him often helped them very materially with their lessons. He cared little for the usual games, but invented a winter pastime which always gave him great delight when he could indulge in it. This was to go upon the ice in his bare feet and be dragged about at a high rate of speed by a hilarious group of school fellows.

Old Sailor.

This game will be fun for the smaller children. They must first "count out" to see which one will be the old sailor. All then stand in line except the old sailor, who comes thumping up and says to the first child: "Here comes an old sailor from Effin bay. What have you got to give him today? He may then ask any question he chooses from the players in turn, but if in answering him any player uses the word "yes" or "no" or "black" or "white" that one must become old sailor, and the questioner takes his place in the line.

The Penny Post.

When Rowland Hill first proposed what was called "the penny post" everybody thought it was a joke, for up to that time it had cost 50 cents to send a letter from one end of England to the other. From the very first, however, the postal system was a success, and now every country in the world has it. It is hard to realize that the very first letter which traveled to its destination for 2 cents was mailed in the days of Queen Victoria's reign—the good queen who died not a great many years ago.

"Well," said the cheerful wife, who thought she had a soprano voice, "if worse comes to the worst I could keep the wolf from the door by singing."
"I don't doubt that would do it," replied the husband, who had suffered much. "But suppose the wolf should happen to be deaf?"—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

PARTIAL VICTORY IN BIG RATE CASE

Long Awaited Decree Handed Down by Supreme Court.

RULING MOST IMPORTANT

The Minneapolis & St. Louis Rates Are Confiscatory, While Those of Northern Pacific and Great Northern Are Valid.

Washington, June 10.—The state of Minnesota won a substantial victory in the supreme court, when in the Minnesota state rate case, Justice Hughes, for the court, held that the rates of the Minneapolis & St. Louis railroad were confiscatory and unconstitutional, but that the rates of the Northern Pacific and Great Northern were valid.

The decision was a victory for the state on the interstate commerce phases of the controversy affecting the Minneapolis & St. Louis.

Justice Hughes said, in part:

"1.—The constitution gives congress an authority at all times adequate to secure the freedom of interstate commerce and to provide effective regulation of that intercourse as the national interest may demand.

"2.—The commerce that is confined within one state and does not affect that of states, is reserved to the state."

The Minnesota rate cases are among the most important with which the United States supreme court has had to deal for many years. Their tendencies are far-reaching and have had a visible effect on the stock market during the past few months.

Three cases are pending under the title of the Minnesota rate cases. An effort was made to enjoin the state of Minnesota from enforcing certain laws passed by the legislature of that state, fixing the rates for freight and passengers for strictly interstate traffic. These rates provided for a reduction in the maximum passenger fare per mile and reduced the freight rate schedules materially on all traffic originating and terminating within the boundaries of the state of Minnesota. The proceedings were first brought by the railroads in the United States circuit court of Minnesota.

Before the lower court the railroads won their cases throughout and the state appealed. Of the issues involved the more important is the right of the state to fix the rates of railroads on purely intrastate business, it having been the settled law, or it had been universally considered theretofore that the states had control of all purely intrastate affairs, while the interstate commerce commission's jurisdiction attached where interstate business was involved.

The lower court sustained the contention of the railroads in effect that where it is proved that reduction in rates made by a state on traffic within the state, necessarily, through the laws of business and competition force the carrier to change rates on interstate traffic, the power of the state is thereby interfered with the federal power solely to regulate interstate traffic and such enactments are void.

The other points involved and urged by the railroads was that the enactments complained of were confiscatory in that they did not provide for a sufficient return to the railroads for the services rendered. This is considered a very significant phase of these cases, as the finding of the court will involve the determination of the values upon which railroads are entitled to earn returns and the question of the proper method of valuing railroad property for the purpose of rate making is of far-reaching consequence.

State rate laws and orders in Missouri, Kentucky, West Virginia, Oregon, Minnesota, Arkansas and Ohio are directly affected by the decision of the court.

STEAMSHIP ON FIRE

Olinda, Bound For Cuba, With 57 on Board, Is Being Towed to Charleston.

New York, June 10.—Reports received here state that fire is raging in hold No. 1 of the steamship Olinda, which left here on Friday last with fifty-seven passengers and large cargo on board, bound for Cuba.

The steamship is in tow of the United States gunboat Nashville and the steamship Curtiya, and was reported to be 190 miles southeast of Charleston.

The Olinda is expected to make the port of Charleston today. In case of necessity, the report further stated, the Olinda's passengers and crew could be easily transferred to the two ves sels towing her.

John E. Lamb, of Terre Haute, Ind., to be ambassador to Mexico.

Meredith Nicholson, of Indianapolis, Ind., to be minister to one of the smaller European states, probably Belgium.

TO UPHOLD WILSON IN LOBBY REPORT

Probers May Suggest Drastic Restrictions.

Washington, June 10.—When the last senator had testified before the special committee hunting for the "lobby," it was predicted at the capitol that the report of the investigators would substantially uphold President Wilson's declaration that powerful influences have been at work in Washington, attempting to affect congress on the tariff bill.

Whether it will be shown that "insidious" methods have been used, as the president alleged, or that improper influences have been exerted upon senators, will depend on the evidence of the next few days, when the committee examines a score or more of men who have called on senators or directed publicity campaigns.

The committee undoubtedly will recommend restrictive legislation of a strong character. It will attempt to draw a clear distinction, however, between an organized campaign to change public opinion or influence senators against their judgment and the legitimate presentation of arguments and facts by officers or representatives of industrial concerns acted by legislation.

Senator Poindexter made the committee sit up when he named several former members of congress whom he believed might be found to have practiced lobbying in Washington.

He named former Senators Dick, of Ohio; Butler, of North Carolina, and DuBois, of Idaho; and former Representatives Watson, of Indiana, and Littauer, of New York.

He did not accuse anyone of improper attempts to influence congress on legislation, but suggested "they might know some interesting things."

SUES CAMERA TRUST

Government Starts Action Against Eastman Kodak Company.

Buffalo, N. Y., June 10.—The Wilson administration filed its second suit under the Sherman anti-trust law.

This action is against the Eastman Kodak company, of Rochester, N. Y., a $30,000,000 corporation. The suit asks for the dissolution of the alleged monopoly and the prohibition of practices which, the government charges, are unfair to competitors.

The federal government charges that the Eastman company controls more than 72 per cent of the business in photographic goods in the United States. It is alleged that the company controls 86 per cent of the film cameras, 44 per cent of the plate cameras, 53 per cent of the dry plates, 67 per cent of the photographic papers and 88 per cent of the cartridge films and film packs.

The Eastman company in organizing the alleged trust purchased the capital stock, it is charged, of twenty-two manufacturing companies.

To Sell Maps of Gettysburg.
Washington, June 10.—In recognition of the coming great celebration on the battlefield of Gettysburg, the United States geological survey announced that it had produced a map of the battlefield which it was prepared to sell to the public at half price. The concession, it was announced, was made by special authority granted by Secretary Lane of the interior department.

TARIFF SHOWS 10 PER CENT. CUT

MANY NEW ARTICLES TAXED

The Income Tax Will More Than Cover the Loss of Import Revenue.

Washington, June 10.—A table prepared by the senate finance committee showing comparative figures based on the Underwood tariff bill and the present tariff law, shows the average ad valorem rate in the proposed law to be 32.99 per cent, as against 43.64 per cent under the Payne-Aldrich bill.

The estimated loss of revenue through the augmented free list in the Underwood bill would be $24,713,329 on an import valuation of $102,534,466. Revenue under the proposed bill, exclusive of the income tax, is estimated at $266,701,130, as compared with $304,216,694 under the present rates. With the income tax estimated at approximately $30,000,000, the total revenue under the proposed bill would aggregate about $347,000,000.

In the sundries schedule wherein the Democrats have added many articles not heretofore taxed or have increased rates on luxuries, the ad valorem equivalent shows an increase over the Payne-Aldrich rates from 24.72 per cent to 33.26, and the estimated revenue from this schedule is rated from $27,000,000 to approximately $60,000,000.

Wool revenues, it is estimated, will decrease from $27,000,000 to $13,000,000. The sugar revenue would decrease from $5,000,000 at the rate of $20,000,000 a year until sugar goes on the free list in three years.

Majority members of the senate finance committee will meet to hear from the sub-committees which have been at work on the various schedules of the bill and to prepare the measure for the Democratic caucus next week.

Senator Simmons, chairman of the committee, said that two of the sub-committees would not be able to report on all of their work for several days, and each has several propositions to submit to the majority members for advice. These include questions relating to the income tax, administrative features, and whether certain duties on the silk schedule should be made specific instead of ad valorem.

The proposal of the sub-committee in charge of the agricultural schedule to put a countervailing duty on live stock and grains and meats and flour also will be discussed by the majority members.

With these products on the free list, subject to a countervailing duty, cattle from Canada would be dutiable at from 22½ to 25 per cent ad valorem, the Canadian tariff on cattle; meats would be dutiable at 2½ to 3 cents a pound; wheat, 10 to 12 cents a bushel; oats and rye, 9 to 10 cents a bushel; flour, 50 to 60 cents a barrel; rye flour, 45 to 50 cents a barrel; oatmeal 50 to 60 cents a barrel.

Senator Simmons estimates that the majority members will be at least a week considering the bill.

COLD SNAP BREAKS RECORD

Chilliest Weather Ever Felt In June Sweeps Northeast Section.

Washington, June 10.—The coldest weather ever recorded during June in the middle Atlantic and New England states, the Ohio valley and the Great Lakes region, was reported to the weather bureau.

The Gulf states are the only territory east of the Rockies to escape an unseasonable drop. "A high barometric pressure of great magnitude" is the official reason.

Frosts are reported from Vermont, central New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Michigan.

CARROTS AS A FEED FOR DAIRY COWS

It will be a long time yet before every one who needs a silo will feel able to have one. In the meantime we must do our best with such as we can afford, writes an Idaho dairyman in Farm and Fireside. For the small farm a root crop is a pretty good substitute. For irrigated sections we are not so sure but that it is more practical and economical than the silo, especially for sections where severe freezing is not the rule.

Last year we had our first experience here in Idaho both with irrigation and with this sort of crop. About the middle of June we planted an acre of carrots. That is a little late if one expects to get the greatest tonnage; but, having weedy ground, we plowed it early and kept it cultivated until that date in order to kill as many weed crops as possible before planting the seed. By waiting this late the carrot crop came on a great deal faster and held its own with the weeds much better than it would have done earlier in the season.

We gave carrots the preference over sugar beets because they have as high

It is said of Ayrshire cows that as grazers they are unequalled, having acquired that habit on the hilly pastures of their native Scotland. Then the Ayrshire makes good use of all food consumed. She excels in efficiency and economy of production where cheap roughage consumed is taken into consideration. Lily of Willowmoor, herewith shown, is the greatest Ayrshire cow. She is owned by J. W. Clise, Redmond, Wash. Her record for 365 days is 22,106 pounds of milk, 588.70 pounds of butter fat, 1,046 pounds of butter; milk test, 4.52 per cent of fat.

a feeding value, and they are not covered with fine roots that cause so much dirt to cling to them. Carrots are especially rich in carbohydrates, which make them balance well with alfalfa.

Our patch made about eighteen tons. It would have been much larger had we had the pure White Belgian seed instead of a mixed lot. We planted the rows twenty-two inches apart and used a beet cultivator and dug them with a beet digger. We use a garden drill set to cover one-half to one inch and drill the seed in quite thick, using about five pounds per acre. They should be thinned to four inches in the row.

Let them stay in the ground as late as possible, then dig and store in a well ventilated root cellar. It must be well ventilated; otherwise they are likely to rot. A moderate amount of freezing will not hurt them. In cutting them for feed we use a corn knife and split them lengthwise.

A cow can handle a much larger piece if cut lengthwise than in cross sections. We are especially careful not to allow the small, round ones to be fed without splitting, as there is more danger of her choking on such pieces than on larger, irregular pieces.

We have been feeding twenty to thirty pounds per day to each cow in addition to a good supply of alfalfa. Danish dairymen feed as high as eighty pounds per day, but they do not have a roughage that equals our alfalfa.

Carrots are not only relished by the cows, but are a good feed for all other stock, especially for horses, sheep and geese. The White Belgian carrot has a large top, which is as good as the roots. It does not taint the cream and butter, but gives a rich color.

ARSONETTES AVENGE SUFFRAGIST'S DEATH

Fires Follow Death of Woman Who Stopped King's Horse

London, June 10.—The death of Miss Emily Wilding Davison from the injuries she received when she tried to break up the Derby last Wednesday resulted in the worst wave of suffragette terrorism that England has yet experienced.

Bands of women in London and elsewhere attacked property with amazing ferocity, doing damage by fire estimated from $60,000 to $75,000.

The grand stand at the Hurl Park race course was consumed by fire. The blaze had been set in the box occupied by the royal family. Oil and tar had been smeared over the wood work and the flames spread quickly. By the time the alarm was given the stand was a mass of flames. Despite efforts of firemen to extinguish the fire it burned eight hours.

At Whippscross and Warthamstow club houses of boating organizations were set on fire and scores of small craft were destroyed. At Warthamstow the flames spread to the surrounding forest and several villages were threatened. Volunteer firemen fought the blaze for hours before they were able to subdue it.

The headquarters of the Woman's Social and Political Union was draped in black in honor of Miss Davison's memory. Plans were set on foot to hold a public funeral for the dead woman and the cortege will be marked by a mighty procession of women through the streets of London. Leaders of the Union hope to have 100,000 women in line.

HOLD 6 YEAR-OLD AS THIEF

Child Accused of Breaking Into Market Stall and is Arrested.

Philadelphia, June 10.—Joseph Giest, six years old, was held under $30 bail for a further hearing by Magistrate Yates at the house of detention on the charge of larceny.

The boy had appeared at the house of detention six times before on similar charges. It is asserted that he broke into the stall of John Schmurtz, in the Second street market, with a false key and robbed several cash registers. He also took eyeglasses, pencils and weights, it is said.

Magistrate Yates decided to hold the boy for a few days, during which time his record could be looked into thoroughly, and then send him to an institution.

Burst Steam Pipes Kill Two, Phillipsburg, N. J., June 10.—A large flywheel in the engine room of the Portland Cement company at Alpha burst and pieces flew up through the roof, breaking the main distributing steam pipes and causing steam and boiling hot water to fall on Edward Butler and Harry Buskirk, the other and engineer respectively. The former died almost instantly and the latter died in the Easton hospital.

ROOSEVELT TALKS TO BOY STUDENTS

Says They Have Chance to Wrestie With Problems.

PLEADS FOR FAIR PLAY

Declares They Must Stand or Fall on Their Own Merits and to Abhor Hypocrisy.

Pottstown, Pa., June 10.—Declaring the boys will now be given the one chance of their lives to stand or fall on their own merits in the great problems of American life, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt addressed the students of the high school here on the campus north of the main building.

The colonel spoke from a platform erected in the rear of the common room. In the assemblage were upwards of 300 commencement visitors and townsfolk. Among the visitors present were George W. Perkins and Jacob Rills, of New York, both of whom have students at the Hill school.

The colonel arrived in a special coach on the Pennsylvania railroad. The address, given under the direction of the Civic club, was one of the series dedicated to the memory of the late Dr. John Meigs. Previous speakers in the course were former Governor Edwin H. Stuart, Seth Low, of New York, and Champ Clark, speaker of the national house of representatives.

For this reason no invitation was extended to the general public of Pottstown, as it would have been impossible to accommodate such a large assemblage. However, nearly 2000 persons availed themselves of the opportunity of getting just a glance at the colonel. So dense was the crowd at the railroad station that the chief of police, Lyman Reifensnyder, had eight special officers detailed to escort Mr. Roosevelt from the car. He was met by Kenneth F. Simpson, president of the Civic club, and in a large limousine was hurried to the school.

Seated on the stand were Mr. Perkins and the headmaster, Alred Rolfe. Mr. Simpson, introducing the colonel, used the words of Seneca or Beveridge that "It was a pleasure to introduce a man who needs no introduction." Then followed an ovation as the colonel stepped to the front, the applause lasting three minutes. The colonel responded with a generous grin and with his right hand waver his broad-brimmed soft hat.

The speaker used as his theme "Training in Good Citizenship," and emphasized forcibly the development of efficiency. "Adding to the name of the school as you go out into life will be your best test of efficiency," he said. Then telling of the dual character of the obligation that rests on the boys the colonel said: "The first essential is efficiency, then decency and straightforwardness. There is one attitude to abhor it is the attitude of hypocrisy. There is a stoop in the intellectual and moral shoulders of hundreds of men of admirable purpose; such men are those who have excellent purposes and no power to achieve."

"Fair play in public and business life is what is demanded of every man," continued the colonel. "In my little bit of overseeing it was always my method to drill that idea into the members, for the man who wins by foul play, developed from efficiency, is a disgrace."

BIG ICE PLANT BURNED

Many Buildings Destroyed and Damaged in Philadelphia Blaze.

Philadelphia, June 10.—Starting from a flame no larger than a man's hand a fire that was fanned by a strong north wind, swept through the plant of the American Ice company at Glenwood and Columbia avenues, almost completely destroying it and damaging a score of dwellings and other buildings in the vicinity. The loss is estimated at $200,000.

Nearly a dozen buildings were comprised in the plant and many were leveled to the ground. They included the engine house, stables and wagon sheds. The building in which ice is manufactured and the huge ware houses were badly damaged. The 250 horses were saved, but 150 wagons were burned.

All the houses on the east side of Glenwood avenue, from 1711 to 1735 were partly burned or scorched. The homes from 1639 to 1640 North Third street, also were scorched, and awnings on their front were set on fire by sparks.

A cafe at Thirtieth street and Columbia avenue was partly consumed by the flames, as was a vacant store and dwelling adjoining.

Leaping across the railroad, the flames also attacked awnings and houses on Clifford street and threatened to spread southwestward toward Fairmount park.

Blamed Liquor For Crime.
Washington, June 10.—Nathaniel Green, a colored man, who assaulted a white woman within sight of the capitol on Christmas night, went to his death on the scaffold, the first man to pay the death penalty for such a crime in the District of Columbia. He had confessed and President Wilson had refused clemency. "Rum and dope did this," he murmured to his guards at the last moment. "I hope I'll be an example to the other me not my race."

ASQUITH BRINGS UP HOME RULE BILL

Premier Moves For Second Reading in Commons.

London, June 10.—When Premier Asquith rose in the house of commons to move the second reading of the home rule for Ireland bill the house presented an animated and crowded appearance.

The scandals in connection with the government's wireless contracts and the ill success of Liberal candidates at the bye-elections had created an uneasy feeling that things were going badly for the government and strong "calls" had been issued by all the parties to get the unremitting attendance of their members so as to insure the government against the possibility of defeat by a "snap" division.

The conviction of Cecil Chesterton on Saturday on a charge of criminal libel in connection with the Marconi "deal," to some extent rehabilitated the cabinet ministers in the eyes of their followers and silenced the attacks of the opposition newspapers, but a large section of the Radical party is extremely dissatisfied with the lack of frankness on the part of cabinet ministers in regard to the Marconi affair, while some of them consider Premier Asquith too lax in his attendance in parliament. A division on the home rule bill is expected to be taken.

JACK BREWER FOUND DEAD

Coroner Investigates Death of Former Champion Wrestling Shot.

Hammonton, N. J., June 10.—Captain "Jack" Brewer, for many years champion wrestling shot of the world, was found dead in his room on Second street, near Vine, by Constable Antonio Pinto and George Bennett.

For several days Brewer's dogs had not been attended to, this arousing the suspicion of Constable Pinto, who resolved to break into Brewer's room. The coroner is making an investigation.

Returned From the Dead

By E. D. LEONARD

"Your father is dead."
The announcement was made at 10 o'clock at night to Albert Huntington, a young man who stood in the room where physicians had been attending a dying patient. The son covered his face with his hands as if to shut out a realization of his bereavement. Then, suddenly taking them away, he said: "Why could he not have lived two hours longer?"

"What purpose would his living those two hours have served?" asked Dr. Pulsifer.

"I cannot explain to you without entering into a long series of legal technicalities. But I can say briefly that my father's estate will pass into the hands of a guardian for me, which will involve endless litigation. Tomorrow will be my birthday. At 12 midnight I will be legally of age and could enter upon the administration of my inheritance myself."

The doctor made no reply. He seemed lost in thought. Then he drew the other physicians into a consultation in low tones and in a few minutes returned to the young man and said: "Send for your notary."

"He is waiting below."

"Very well. You have heard of the recent discoveries, I suppose, in reference to what we call death—that when a man is pronounced dead and is what we have always supposed to be dead he is not dead. He is like a man unconscious under water. If he is permitted to remain there he eventually drowns. If he is drawn above the surface he may be resuscitated. Your father may be brought back to life and possibly held there till after midnight."

"Do you mean it?"

"I do. At any rate, I and my colleagues are willing to make the experiment. But to take advantage of our efforts if we succeed you should have witnesses here to testify that the patient lived the day you became of age."

"Doctor," exclaimed the young man, grasping the physician's hand, "if you do this you will make a friend of me so long as I live. There is a reason why I am so anxious in the matter that I have not yet given you. A marriage was arranged by my father and the parents of a girl I love that by the terms of his will is indirectly dependent upon my coming of age and inheriting as a man instead of a minor. By pronouncing my father's life two hours you will not only save my estate from being devoured under an expensive lawsuit, but you will unite a pair of lovers."

While this dialogue was going on the assistant doctors were administering a hypodermic injection. Dr. Pulsifer while waiting for the effect occupied the attention of young Huntington, commenting upon the discoveries on which the expected result was based.

"It has been shown," he said, "that every function of life except consciousness may be kept up after death. We hope to show that your father performs those functions. If his heart beats and he breathes he is, in the eye of the law, alive. Experimenters have not yet reached a point where consciousness may be restored, but it is not unlikely that result may be attained."

One of the assistant physicians, who had his ear on the dead man's chest, announced to Dr. Pulsifer that the heart beat faintly and asked if he should administer another injection. Dr. Pulsifer looked at his watch and saw that there still remained an hour and ten minutes to midnight. "Wait twenty minutes," he said, "unless the heart beats cease."

"Doctor," said young Huntington, "may I announce what you are doing to those waiting below?"

"I would advise you to say nothing."

"I may at least give hope to the girl whom I love and who loves me, may I not?"

"Yes, but I would only give hope I would not explain the matter to her."

Huntington ran downstairs, and when he returned a second hypodermic injection was being given to the dead man. In ten minutes the physician who had administered it and who sat beside the bed holding the wrist, announced that he could feel a slight pulsation and placing his ear on the left breast found quite a strong beat. Dr. Pulsifer took up a hand mirror, held it over the nostrils, examined it touching it here and there with a eumbric handkerchief, and announced that there was a slight moisture on it. This meant that breathing had resumed.

Huntington ran downstairs again and told his fiancée that his father was better. Kissed her and ran back into the room where his father lay.

At 11:40 by the clock the patient's heart was beating with considerable strength and his chest was rising and falling perceptibly. At 11:55 a last hypodermic was administered, and at 12:05 it was announced to those below that the patient had now come to life, and they were asked to go to the chamber where he lay. Dr. Pulsifer stood with his watch in his hand and pointed to the patient. Several persons examined his heart and took note of his breathing. The lovers stood together, the girl's arm within that of her fiance, looking on with awe. At 12:15 Dr. Pulsifer made an examination of the patient and pronounced him dead. The notary looked at his watch and took a deposition from every one present that the exact hour of death was 12:15.

Judge Barnhorst does his duty to RHEUMATIC SUFFERERS

If you suffer from Rheumatism and don't read this advice, then the terrible disease must have robbed you of your power to be fair to yourself. Read it: "I, John Barnhorst, Justice of the Peace of McLean Township, Ft. Laramie, Ohio, do certify that after treatment by three doctors without result, I have been cured of a very bad case of Rheumatism by using two bottles of RHEUMA. It is now two years since I used this remedy, and am still as well as ever. Previous to using RHEUMA I was a cripple, walking with crutches, and I feel it my duty to let other sufferers from Rheumatism know what it will do. The result seems almost miraculous to me. I have advised RHEUMA to at least a dozen persons, and each one speaks as highly of it as I. I will answer any one suffering from the disease if a two-cent stamp is enclosed."—May 31, 1912.

You can secure a bottle of RHEUMA for only 50 cents at The People's Drug Store and they say if not as advertised, money back. It's just as good for Gout, Arthritis, Lumbago and Sciatica.

A CONVINCING DEMONSTRATION

That many an orchard is nonproductive, or, at best, only spasmodically so through lack of the fertilizing elements necessary to produce an apple crop, has been very strikingly shown in an experiment which has been carried on in southern Ohio under the direction of the State Agricultural college. Two rows of twelve trees each are located on soil that up to the time the experiment was begun had only been manured and had received the same spraying, this before 1910. Prior to this time the leaves had been small and of a sticky, unhealthy color. In the spring of the year mentioned there were scattered beneath the trees of one row five pounds each of nitrate of soda and acid phosphate per tree, the application being made over an area a trifle larger than that covered by the spread of the branches. Within a period of two weeks the results of the fertilizing were noticed in a healthier color of leaf on the fertilized trees. This continued through the season and was accompanied by a full setting of vigorous fruit buds for the following season.

The following spring the trees blossomed full, the trees being given another application of fertilizer. This was also repeated in the spring of 1912. Both rows received the same care as to mulching, pruning and spraying. As to results, in the fall of 1911 the twelve trees that received the fertilizer yielded thirty barrels of fruit, while the twelve that received none produced but three barrels. In 1912 the fertilized row produced twenty barrels and the other row seven barrels. Putting the results of the two years together gives a gain of forty barrels on the twelve trees that were fertilized over the same number of trees that received none. The fertilizer cost $4.50, or a little less than 12 cents per barrel. In view of such a showing as this, the farmer who has an orchard that is fast getting into or is already in the "star boarder" class might well look into this question of orchard fertilizers.

If you like to have the birds about your place undisturbed it will be well to put a quietus on those small red squirrels with a target rifle. If you do not they will not only destroy the birds' eggs, but will kill their half grown young ones.

Have an eye for the small fruit. It is easily tended to and harvested, and by careful handling at canning time it will greatly assist in cutting down the living expenses. It is more conducive to good health, too, than so much greasy meat, gravy, etc.

It is an interesting commentary on the method of farming that is being followed in many western states that the average yield of corn is steadily decreasing in the central western portion of the corn belt, but that it is on the increase in the eastern states.

The health of many families as well as their pocketbooks would be a good deal better off if during the summer months they would substitute other forms of protein food in place of meat. Among these are garden vegetables, milk and its byproducts, nuts, cereals, fish and eggs.

BADLY HURT

J. T. Beyard, Emmitsburg, Suffering With Serious Injuries.

J. T. Beyard, aged about 35 years of Emmitsburg, was found lying unconscious near the Rocky Ridge station along the Western Maryland Railroad Sunday morning by the telegraph operator about 7 o'clock. He was taken to the Hagerstown hospital, and although everything possible is being done to effect his recovery, little hope is held out for him.

The man was returning from Baltimore on the excursion, which was run from Smithsburg, and although not definitely known to be a fact, it is thought that he either fell from the platform or while attempting to alight, missing his footing and as he fell, struck his head on the rough ground, which rendered him unconscious, in which condition he has since remained.

Cows should never be fed exclusively on silage, but should have some dry forage fed with it. Silage is a carbonaceous food and should have some more nitrogenous food to go with it in order to make a better balanced ration.

Runk & Peckman's Realty Report

Gettysburg, June 10, 1913—Nearly every man can look back—and not so far back either for most of us—and say, if I had taken that chance, I would be better off now. That is what you will say some day, not far off, if you fail to consider seriously what we are now offering in Farms, Town properties and Business opportunities.

Ten years ago, two tenant farmers, named Smith and Jones, lived side by side. They were men of equal capabilities, hard workers and both had saved some money. Smith decided to stop farming on the shares, borrowed some capital—bought a farm that was run-down somewhat and begun to work for himself. By better cultivation and gradually improving the property he was able to sell the farm for almost twice as much money as he paid for it. He repeated this operation several times with equal success. Smith is now the owner of several well-paying farms, with money in the bank and is considered one of the substantial men in his community—while Jones, who was afraid to take a chance—always heeded the time-worn remark "Land is going to come down one of these days" is still a renter. He is just where he was ten years ago, except that he looks a little older and work does not go so easy any more.

Just pause and think for a minute—How many Smiths do you know? And how many Jones? Don't you think it is time for you to join the Smith "Crowd." There are more opportunities to make money in Real Estate, right here in Adams County than ever before. Land values are going up and will continue to do so as better farming methods are being followed. If you doubt this statement, all you have to do is to take a trip through Franklin, Cumberland and York counties—observe the soil, buildings, farming methods and land values and you'll come home with a firm and unwavering faith in Adams County and its future possibilities.

Here are a few farms which should interest someone—
2 acres right along the Chambersburg pike, good house, barn and out-buildings—a well located property in excellent repair and just the place if you want to retire and take it easy $1000.

70 acre Hillside farm, close to Knoxlyn Mills. The buildings are very good—frame house, bank barn. Everything in A 1 condition. 50 A. of this farm is in woodland, and balance in machine worked fields—some granite rocks but the soil can't be beat. The owner is old and wants to retire at once. Hence the low price of $1850.

50 acres 2 miles from Hampton. A strictly high class farm in a very good neighborhood—15 acres of timber. Buildings all new and of the best. The 7 room frame house with slate roof cost over $1700 alone to build 6 years ago. Land is level, rich and fertile, fenced into 6 nice fields with public highway running through the middle. R. F. D. and good market for produce at the door. Store, churches and school nearby. The owner has and is making more clear money off this place than many with large farms. If you want something real good, here it is and only $3500.

A 100 acre farm below the Pumping Station for $4500 should interest you if you are looking for something to improve a little and increase the value. This farm has two sets of buildings, land is of good quality and has been left principally in grass. The owner is old and in very poor health and wants to sell quick. Here is an opportunity.

If you want to buy real estate of any kind, get in touch with us at once—don't delay. Do it now.
